Statement

Shifting between painting, drawing, and ceramics, I explore domestic space. Through playful, intersubjective dialogue with dogs, cats, blenders, heaters, and other domestic entities, I aim to destabilize the conventional logics, hierarchies, and routines that shape our environments.

I'm interested in the possible blurring of boundaries between the animate and the inanimate. My work engages with layered everyday ecosystems, their materialities, and the experiences that give them form.

My practice is shaped by my upbringing in Ciudad Satélite, an overgrown suburb devoured by Mexico City, and my current life in Switzerland. This shift informs my attention to scale, adaptation, and the silent anthropocentric codes embedded in the spaces we inhabit.
